Caleb: So, this is one of the comments on a _New York Times'_ dining blog post about pairing drinks with movies:

Caleb: "Since we often go to the movies around cocktail time I find the perfect solution is to actually bring the cocktails into the theater. If we're going with another couple I'll mix up a batch of gimlets or martinis, put them in a chilled thermos, and pour once we are seated. A bag of popcorn does well for the nibbles. "
